

News Release

For Immediate Release

Date: 4/20/2007

JOSEPH LAWLESS OF LAWLESS COMPANY HOME INSPECTIONS HAS PASSED THE NATIONAL HOME INSPECTOR EXAMINATION

Joseph Lawless has taken and passed the nationally-recognized National Home Inspection Examination. The NHIE is used by 22 states to assess home inspector competence. It is developed, maintained and administered by the Examination Board of Professional Home Inspectors (EBPHI), an independent not-for-profit organization.

“Our mission is to provide a valid, reliable, and legally defensible examination for states and others who need to assess home inspector competency,” said Walter Perry, executive director of EBPHI, “We congratulate those who have passed this rigorous exam.”

EBPHI serves the public interest by establishing the standard of competence for the home inspection profession. Governed by a volunteer board of directors, the organization does not depend on membership dues revenue, focusing wholly on consumer protection in home inspector competency assessment.

Since 1999, the Board has administered more than 20,000 examinations nationwide.

For more information about the National Home Inspector Examination, email info@homeinspectionexam.org or visit our website at www.homeinspectionexam.org.

###